Welcome Message

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the International Society for Sexual Medicine (ISSM) and the European Society for Sexual Medicine (ESSM) we are welcoming you to the joint World Meeting on Sexual Medicine, Lisbon - Portugal, February 28 – March 3, 2018. This meeting combines two of the world's largest meetings in the field of sexual medicine – 21st World Meeting of the International Society for Sexual Medicine and 20th Congress of the European Society for Sexual Medicine – and attracts delegates from far afield including Gulf Region, North and South America, Asia and Europe. Many specialists attending the meetings include (but are not limited to) scientists, clinicians, and physicians in the field of urology, andrology, gynecology, psychology, and psychiatry from all over the world.

The standard of the scientific content is very high and it is therefore regarded as the essential meeting to attend to present new data in all fields of Sexual Medicine.

Sexual Medicine has evolved over the years from just erectile dysfunction to encompass female sexual disorders and social and gender issues and now deals with all aspects of male and female health affected by these conditions. We are therefore keen to organize a large and comprehensive meeting program of high educational and scientific value to all members and guests.

Similar to the Societies' meetings and congresses, we have planned a mixture of various State-of-the-Art Lectures, Podium Presentations, Poster Presentations, Interactive Sessions, Point-Counterpoint Sessions, Round Table Discussions, Pre-Conference Symposia and Educational Workshops.

This joint World Meeting on Sexual Medicine promises to be a unique outstanding scientific and educational experience with a diverse and international faculty that includes many of the acknowledged world experts and opinion leaders in the field of female and male sexual medicine.

We thank you for joining us in Lisbon for what promises to be an exciting and memorable meeting.

With kind regards,

Prof. Dr. Luca Incrocci

Workshop: Penile cancer: Treatment options and sexual consequences

📍 Location: Auditorium III

👤 Faculty: Asif Muneer (United Kingdom) & Arie Parnham (United Kingdom)

Audience: Physicians and surgeons treating men with premalignant and malignant penile lesions.

Aim: To provide an overview of the recognition, diagnosis and management of premalignant and malignant lesions of the penis. This will incorporate video based surgical techniques for penile preserving surgery.

Learning objectives and needs assessment:

By the end of the workshop the delegates should be able to:

- » Diagnose pre-malignant conditions and understand the referral criteria for definitive treatment
- » Gain an overview of the epidemiology and risk factors associated with penile cancer
- » Understand the pre-operative imaging techniques and interpretation of histology
- » Understand the rationale and techniques of penile preserving surgery
- » Appreciate the role of dynamic sentinel lymph node biopsy for the management of inguinal nodes
- » Appreciate the consequences of penile cancer treatment on sexual health and voiding function

Contents: Penile cancer is a rare malignancy, with the commonest histological subtype being squamous cell carcinoma (SCC). Men often present late for medical attention and treatment. Early lesions can present to a range of specialists including GUM physicians, dermatologists, urologists and primary care physicians. The premalignant lesions can present with subtle changes on the glans penis or foreskin which may interfere with sexual intercourse due to pain or lichen sclerosus induced phimosis. The progression rate for carcinoma in situ to SCC is up to approximately 30% and can be treated effectively by topical therapies combined with circumcision. However, invasive penile SCC requires more radical treatment although the contemporary management has moved away from performing partial or total penectomy where possible. Penile preserving surgery using techniques such as glans resurfacing and glansectomy together with reconstruction using split skin grafts aim to preserve the penile length and the erectile function such that both penetrative intercourse and voiding whilst standing are preserved. As the cancer can spread to the inguinal lymph nodes, radical inguinal node surgery can result in significant lymphoedema of the genitalia and a high incidence of perioperative complications. In patients with impalpable disease the morbidity can be reduced by offering dynamic sentinel node biopsy to patients with high risk disease.

THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 2018

03:00 p.m. - 04:00 p.m.

Workshop: Combination-therapies in MSD (ED and EjD) - Which may fit for whom

📍 Location: Auditorium III

👤 Faculty: Hartmut Porst (Germany) & Hossein Sadeghi-Nejad (USA)

Combination therapies are frequently used by practitioners to treat erectile dysfunction and premature ejaculation refractory to monotherapy. This workshop will explore the prevalence, "real-life" efficacy, and safety of combination therapies in an informal small discussion group. Topics will include various combinations of PDE5 inhibitors, VED, intracavernosal/intraurethral pharmacotherapies, and penile prostheses for ED as well as combinations of SSRIs, topical therapies, psychotherapy, and PDE5 inhibitors for PE treatment. Because of the current off label status of combined therapies and the paucity of clinical data published on the subject, the experience of the course leaders and participants will constitute a substantial component of the workshop content.

THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 2018

04:30 p.m. - 05:30 p.m.

Workshop: Education in sexual medicine

📍 Location: Auditorium III

👤 Faculty: Yacov Reisman (The Netherlands) & Alan Shindel (USA)

Aim: To review the current needs and means to improve education in sexual medicine.

Objectives: The participant in the workshop will be able to:

- » Recognize the principles of medical education and applications in sexual medicine

Workshop Information

- » Address steps in attaining sexual medicine competence
- » Be aware of guidelines and recommendations from the ISSM and affiliated organizations
- » Practice in talking about sexuality in the clinical context

Content: Education in sexual medicine is critical to medical professionalism. The complexity of human sexuality mandates that sexuality education in medical school be taught in a multi-disciplinary manner. Certain global core standards apply to sexuality education but there should be flexibility in terms of what is taught at individual schools; this may be due to a need for sensitivity to regional mores and/or availability of trained faculty. Recommendations on sexuality education have been promulgated by societies such as the ISSM and ESSM. In some cases accepted levels of competence have also been defined (e.g.ESSM, MJCSM/UEMS). During the workshop, we will discuss core competences in sexual medicine education. We will review current guidelines and recommendations from ISSM. An exercise on discussion of sexuality in the clinical context will occur. An open discussion forum will also be included.

Workshop: Practical management of sexual health issues in disabled people

📍 Location: Auditorium III

👤 Faculty: Woet Gianotten (The Netherlands) & Michal Lew-Starowicz (Poland)

This workshop will focus on dealing with intimacy and sexuality aspects of people with physical impairment.

Aim: We will try to further open the mind of the participants to the challenges of sexual rehabilitation. The workshop will mainly concentrate on the skills and attitude that are needed in the setting or surrounding of physical rehabilitation with the goal of restoring healthy sexuality in patients with disabilities.

Learning objectives:

1. Adapt a realistic approach to the possibilities and impossibilities of physical impairment that can be serious (congenital or acquired, and sometimes progressive).
2. Change from a 'sexological mindset' to an approach where the practicalities of the sexual act itself are at stake and have to be dealt with.
3. Increase awareness of what an impairment can do to sexual identity and to the relationship and how that could be managed.
4. Improve knowledge of sexual rights and protection of people living with various disabilities.

Contents: In this workshop we will not deal with definitions and percentages, but with the 'How to do?' including clinician's attitude, patients' needs and facilitating sexual activity using a holistic approach. We will use typical 'disability'-examples to get immersed in the rehabilitation practice. The workshop will also challenge the participants to take a next step in dealing with the complexities of the common sexual disturbances in physical rehabilitation.

FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 2018

03:00 p.m. - 04:00 p.m.

Workshop: Medical treatment of female sexual dysfunction - Indications and limitations

📍 Location: Auditorium III

👤 Faculty: Annamaria Giraldi (Denmark) & Gideon Sartorius (Switzerland)

Aim: Update on treatment options of some aspects of female sexual dysfunction (desire problems, vulvodynia/dyspareunia as well as female sexual dysfunction in infertility and cancer patients).

Objectives: Insight into treatment options (including medical and non-medical approaches) with a special emphasis on tips and tricks for daily clinical practice.

Content: Input presentations and case discussions covering theoretical background knowledge and practical approaches regarding desire problems, pain problems and sexual dysfunction in infertility and cancer patients.

FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 2018

04:30 p.m. - 05:30 p.m.

Workshop: Vulvoscopy + female clinical investigation

📍 Location: Auditorium III

👤 Faculty: Leen Aerts (Switzerland) & Irwin Goldstein (USA)

Description: The aim of this workshop is to provide a guide for the practitioner for conducting a vulvoscopic examination and documenting the findings. Dr. Aerts will take the participants on a step-by-step tour of the external genitalia including the labia majora, labia minora and clitoris. Dr. Goldstein will explain the internal examination, including the urethra, vestibule and vagina. Landmarks will be discussed, and practical tips for making the performance of the examination easier, including an emphasis on consistency of examination. Better visualization allows for better opportunity for a proper diagnosis and therefore better patient management.

At the conclusion of the workshop the participant should be able to:

- » Cite the various locations to be examined under magnification, including both vulvar and vaginal regions
- » Classify normal versus abnormal for each area of the genitals based on the examination
- » Collect and record the information from the vulvoscopic examination such that changes can be followed post treatment

Workshop: Penile doppler ultrasound

📍 Location: Auditorium IV

👤 Faculty: Gregory Broderick (USA) & Suresh Sikka (USA)

Workshop will be split into two following lectures/sessions:

1. Penile Doppler Examination for ED: Indications and Technique (Dr. Sikka)
2. Penile Doppler Examination for Peyronie's Disease: Assessing Patients Prior to Intervention (Dr. Broderick)

Statement of needs: With currently available non-invasive medical therapies for erectile dysfunction most patients can safely be triaged to effective therapy with limited diagnostics. There are men who have failed oral PDE5 Inhibitors or who have more complex risk factors who will require evidence based evaluations for definitive diagnosis and triage of therapy. Color Doppler penile examination coupled with intra-cavernous vasoactive injection is a minimally invasive diagnostic procedure. There are several decades of peer review data and ISSM consensus statements as to the indications for penile Doppler diagnostics. In spite of penile Doppler evaluation being practiced all over the world, there is no uniformity in its assessment, data interpretation and validation. There is an urgent need in its standardization especially for proper patient care where indicated and for multicenter clinical trials.

Target audiences for this workshop are physicians and physician assistants who diagnose and treat complex erectile dysfunction and Peyronie's disease.

Aims and learning objectives

1. The participants will understand the indications for penile imaging and color Doppler ultrasound evaluation.
2. Participants will learn the basic essential physics of Doppler ultrasonography.
3. Participants will appreciate the Doppler imaging correlates of normal physiologic erection and imaging artifacts.
4. Participants will learn the criteria for diagnosing: arterial insufficiency, veno-occlusive dysfunction, penile tumescence and rigidity.
5. Participants will become familiar with office based intra-cavernous pharmaco-diagnostics in an interactive manner.
6. Participants will learn the criteria for diagnosing the spectrum of duplex findings in Peyronie's disease along with angle measurements and changes pre- and post-therapy.

SATURDAY, MARCH 3, 2018

11:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.

Workshop: Contemporary management of post-prostatectomy sexual dysfunction: From penile rehabilitation toward a global sexual assessment

📍 Location: Auditorium IV

👤 Faculty: Mikkel Fode (Denmark) & Pedro Vendeira (Portugal)

Audience: Physicians and Psychologists treating men with sexual dysfunction after radical prostatectomy (RP) and their partners.

Aim: Sexual function is a critical factor in the choice of treatment for localized prostate cancer. It is important to stress, however, that clinical studies reporting erectile function outcomes after localized prostate cancer treatment often demonstrate poorly interpretable and inconsistent manners of assessment as well as widely disparate rates of erectile dysfunction and function. The aim of this workshop is to tailor specific approaches dealing with rehabilitation and direct treatment on sexual (dys)function after RP based on evidence based data together with tips and tricks from experts in the field

Workshop Information

Objectives: Surgical therapy of prostate cancer can cause lesions to the neurovascular bundle and thus neurogenic ED. Bilateral nerve-sparing RP aims to preserve cavernous nerve function, but even when correctly performed, the postoperative incidence of ED is high. However, sexual dysfunction after surgery goes beyond the penis and a lot of neglected sexual side effects can also occur. That's the case for ejaculatory and orgasmic disorders, incontinence during sexual activity, penile deformities, loss of sexual desire, etc. The work shop will cover the occurrence and management of these issues.

Summary of contents:

1. Incidence and pathophysiology of sexual dysfunction after radical prostatectomy
2. General guidelines on the approach of sexual dysfunctions after radical prostatectomy
3. Is penile rehabilitation the gold standard on the approach of sexual dysfunction after radical prostatectomy?
4. Current oral, local and surgical treatments
5. Management of neglected sexual side effects after radical prostatectomy

SATURDAY, MARCH 3, 2018

01:30 p.m. - 02:30 p.m.

Workshop: Managing female sexual pain in the practical setting: What makes a treatment plan successful?

📍 Location: Auditorium IV

👤 Faculty: Marieke Dewitte (Belgium) & Francesca Tripodi (Italy)

Content and aim: Genital pain is a prevalent, complex and disabling health concern in women. Given that genital pain is heterogeneous and includes different pain syndromes that are determined by a wide variety of biological and psychosocial factors, we want to increase awareness of the different profiles of women complaining about genital pain, thereby focusing specifically on vaginismus (and unconsummated marriages) and vulvodynia because these are the most common causes of genital pain in sexual medicine. We will also discuss the challenges of making a differential diagnosis and indicate the importance of taking a good physical examination and a thorough psychosexual history to prevent diagnostic delay, misdiagnoses and treatment mismatches. We will also indicate the need to develop multimodal treatments that target biopsychosocial aspects of genital pain. This approach requires multidisciplinary teams and collaboration across disciplines.

Learning objectives: Participants will learn about how biopsychosocial factors affect the development and maintenance of the pain, the reporting of symptoms, and the choice of treatment. The workshop will take the format of an interactive session in which we share our own clinical experience, give examples of a treatment protocol for vaginismus and vulvodynia, discuss difficult cases, and give the audience the opportunity to bring their own clinical cases.

SATURDAY, MARCH 3, 2018

02:30 p.m. - 03:30 p.m.

Workshop: Prevention of complications during IPP placement

📍 Location: Auditorium IV

👤 Faculty: Amy Guise (USA) & Javier Romero-Otero (Spain)

The aim will be to provide our experience, from a very pragmatic point of view, in the management of complications during and after prosthetic penile surgery.

Learning objectives: To provide knowledge to repair in the OR: distal corpora perforation, urethra perforation, proximal perforation, cross-over. How to manage infection, bleeding, hematoma, glans ischemia, penile necrosis.

Contents: will provide short videos and powerpoint to show, from a very practical point of view how to proceed in every scenario.
