

Tillmann Kruger CV

Tillmann Kruger is Associate Professor at the Department of Psychiatry, Social Psychiatry and Psychotherapy at the Hannover Medical School (MHH) where he received his M.D. degree in 1999.

He is Head of the Section Clinical Psychology and Sexual Medicine and Deputy Head of the Department of Psychiatry, Social Psychiatry and Psychotherapy. He is a board-certified psychiatrist and psychotherapist as well as neurologist.

Training locations include the Hannover Medical School, the University Clinics of Essen, both in Germany, and the University Hospital and Swiss Federal Institute of Technology in Zurich, Switzerland.

He has published numerous papers on the neurobiology of human normal and deviant sexual behaviour. Tillmann Kruger coordinated a research consortium dedicated to basic and clinical understanding of child sexual abuse and pedophilia (NeMUP) which was funded by the Federal Ministry of Research and Education (BMBF) from 2012-2018.

At MHH he is medical head of two clinical prevention programmes against child sexual offending ("Don't offend") and sexual violence towards women ("I CAN CHANGE"). Apart from this his clinical and scientific expertise includes clinical neuroscience of affective and personality disorders. Main topics are the modulation and treatment of mood states and affective/personality disorders by novel neuropsychiatric interventions such as treatment with botulinum toxin.
